"Let's face it, how good is that. And it's how you use it to change from time to time," says Zahn. "It's a wonderful luxury that we all enjoy. One of the things I was told when we were building our facilities is that one of the questions asked somebody, 'What do people with mental illness like?' And the answer was 'The same things you like — whatever you're talking about.' These are human beings who like the same comforts and luxuries as you do. They're functioning on a level where they're trying to get by; what can we do to make life better for them."
